

Our Gratitude List

Celebrating my 20th ePP-versary and having the chance to reflect on how far we've come as a company, a team, and individuals, and realizing there is still so much more to do — Christine

Working with people who genuinely care—about each other, the work we do, and the people and world around us — Jen

Getting to work with colleagues and clients who let their humanity shine through everything they say and do — Jess

Being able to watch an awesome new product go from an idea to an outline to a manuscript to a real learning tool for teachers and students — Kate

My paycheck and health benefits, which put me in a privileged class, and I hope that one day having food on the table and decent healthcare isn't a privilege — Lance

Collaborative colleagues who are willing to jump in and share their experience and expertise, finding the joy in even the most challenging of situations — Meg

Embracing our shared humanity in all senses of the word

Having fun in formal wear to celebrate a milestone birthday at our annual retreat in the White Mountains

Seeing clients all over Arizona, the Chandler police force in full riot gear at our Airbnb, and the alleged Grand Canyon covered in fog

Clients who feel like friends, and a team that feels like family
